

Seminar in Music Industry

This course will provide you with an introduction to the intellectual and theoretical frameworks that form the Music Industry minor and that scholars of music and music industries have developed to analyze, understand, and perhaps judge what happens out there, including how music business works in financial, legal, global, and artistic terms, how music technologies of recording, reproduction, and consumption operate, and how basic music science from acoustics to brain biology to music perception affect how music is produced and heard. Required of Music Industry minors.
