

Learn About Musical Cultures From Around The World

This Summer at UCLA

The Summer World Music Intensive at The UCLA Herb Alpert School of Music is a weeklong program designed for high school students age 14-18. Participants will explore the musical cultures of Java, Bali, Thailand, Korea, China, India, Africa, Afro-Cuban, Brazil, Latin America, Iran, and Armenia. Expand your horizon by experiencing unfamiliar musical cultures from around the world and learn how to appreciate the diversity of global performing arts and their meanings in a cultural context.

- Learn about music from around the world and its unique cultural context
- Learn from top faculty in UCLA's globally renowned Department of Ethnomusicology
- Participate in interactive classes featuring audio-visual examples, hands-on workshops and group activities
